REVEAL14 - Towards a Circular Sustainability Culture

Technologies, Social Innovation and Community Development

From the 13th to the 15th of September, we will organise our 14th REVEAL conference - this time back home in Göttingen.

This time we are moving towards “Open Learning and Development Spaces for Sustainability and Local Development”.

We define sustainability along the 17 SDGs and include citizenship projects, public private community partnerships, cultural projects and climate change mitigation projects.

We are inviting 10 diverse European projects and also local communities to join in our new active conference and exhibition format - we will talk less and experiment more! At the conference, we are expecting a large transnational audience of around 100 people from more than 15 European countries.

We asked the European and local projects and initiatives to present their tangible products and prototypes in a special exhibition format and let the participants experience and try them out in transnational teams along an active exhibition circuit. The exhibition works in an innovative hybrid (digitally supported) format in which everyone can explore the exhibits at their own speed and at different depths of information and concepts.

INVITATION

We will share different domains of sustainable and cultural community development. You may work on state-of-the-art sustainable products and services developed in and for communities, try out SDG management formats, experience innovative transcultural development activities, enjoy and learn about storytelling, take part in local initiatives to preserve cultural heritage and many more.

The main conference day is Wednesday the 14th of September, but the event already starts on Tuesday (13th) afternoon with a get-together and warmup and continues up to Thursday (15th) for feedback, capitalisation and follow-up sessions. Please plan to join us at least from Tuesday afternoon to Thursday morning.

Those of you who are interested in modern arts can win tickets for the documenta 15 which is taking place in its final week in Kassel these days.

We hope to see you in Göttingen in September!

Please register for the event as soon as possible.
